development and the eradication of poverty are the first and over-riding priorities of the developing world.

The Rio Conference has seen a reaffirmation of national sovereignty over natural resources, a concept which some countries were suggesting to be modified, particularly in relation to forests, on global environmental considerations.

The Conference also led to some important statements and declarations, as given below :—

(1) The Rio Declaration on Environment and Development outlining the main elements of sustainable development.

(2) Agenda 21, which outlines the programmes of action linking environment and developemnt.

(3) The Non-legally binding Authoritative Statement of Principles for a global consensus on the management conservation and sustainable development of all types of forests.

(4) The Framework Convention on Climate Change and the Convention on Conservation of Biodiversity.

(b) India was associated with the preparatory process leading to the Conference in many ways, including the Vice Chairmanship of the Preparatory Committee. Besides, in April 1990, India hosted at the officials level, a meeting of select developing countries. This was followed by active participation in the Ministerial meeting held at Beijing in June, 1991 and the second Ministerial meeting held at Kuala Lumpur in April, 1992. India also hosted in April, 1992, the meeting of SAARC Ministers of Environment leading to a declaration which was placed before the UN Conference.

The Indian delegation to UNCED played an active role not only in the detailed negotiations on Agenda-21 but also in mobilising opinion, both among countries of the Group of 77 and others, in various important issues, particularly in regard to the Rio Declaration on Environment and Development and the Statement on Forests, leading to a broad consensus of views.
